Turning off auto pilot

MCABC's Board of Directors will be meeting later this month to consider the member survey results and to set a refreshed strategic direction that supports the professional and business success of mechanical contractors in BC.

Our top 3 questions

1. What is the objective?
2. Will the action help eliminate barriers to our members' success?
3. Are we exercising fiscal responsibility?

In the meantime, MCABC staff members are committed to continuous improvement and I am encouraging us to turn off auto pilot and question every action, every decision and every expense. - Kim Barbero, CEO

Do our digs interest you?

We aren't moving but we are in the early stages of considering the benefits of renting out some of our space and would first like to gauge the interest of members. Are you interested in renting one or more individual offices with all the amenities at our building

Office sharing makes sense.

on Henning Drive in Burnaby? Do you host larger meetings and ever require access to rental of a boardroom? Do you have need for a virtual office to access while you are on the on road? If any of these options are of interest, I'd like to hear from you. - Kim Barbero, CEO

You can skip the dishes, but don't skip lunch!

Celebrating the life of Shamandeep Singh Gill

Our condolences to the family, friends and colleagues of Sham Gill who passed away July 21st. Sham, an estimator with Davidson Bros, is remembered for his gentle and kind nature, his verve for life and his projects. MCABC sends warm thoughts to Sham's wife Jess and two daughters and to the team at Davidson Bros who cherished Sham's contributions.

A funeral and prayer service for Sham was held on July 27th.
